Friday Notes

Friday, January 12, 2018

Upcoming Events

- 1/15/18 No School- In service Day
- 1/18/18 First Burke Ski Day

Health News

Students in all grades are starting their nutrition unit this week. We will be learning what types of foods we should be choosing to fuel our body everyday, and the importance of getting the nutrients our body needs to be healthy. Younger students will also be learning about the five food groups and MyPlate. Students in the older grades will be working on how to read food labels correctly and portion sizes for each food group.

Lunch Bills

As many of you know our MySchoolBucks account has not been working to check balances or pay bills. At this time we have been told that it should be working and you can try to login to pay your accounts. If for some reason it is still not working for you, Alice would like you to call her at the school and she can tell you your balance so that you can pay with a check or cash. Please let us know if you have any questions.

Dear Peacham School Families,

We enjoyed a great week of school! On Tuesday we enjoyed a morning of XC skiing and snowshoeing at Craftsbury Outdoor Center and an afternoon of outdoor education from the Fairbanks Museum. Students finished their winter assessments this week and certainly deserve their upcoming long weekend. Students will not have school this coming Monday (1/15/18). Teachers will participate in a SU wide in-service day that is primarily focused on our literacy programs.

Please remember that we will begin our Burke ski days this coming Thursday (1/18) for students in grades K-6. It is very important that students bring extra warm and dry sets of clothing on these days. If you need help acquiring the appropriate winter clothing for these days please contact me at the school. Students do not need their own skis/snowboards or helmets for Burke days.

I hope that you all enjoy the weekend with your families and are able to avoid the coming nasty weather! I look forward to seeing all of the students on Tuesday; enjoy the long weekend!

My Best,
Ashley
